

Tim Fassett

Always one to break the mold, Tim Fassett had the department he manages write his bio for his application for the board of directors for the National Used Truck Association. And while we collectively hope you'll find both entertainment value and hilarity in the summary below, we trust that you'll also discover why Tim would be an outstanding addition to your board of directors.

A family man first, Tim is a husband and father first in life. Living out effortlessly that you can't take life too seriously because you'll never get out alive, he mans the helm of the used trucks department of Transwest Truck Trailer RV of Brighton, Colorado; a leader in the industry in truck sales, service, and outstanding customer care.

When you ask the cohorts that work for him to list the qualities, they all agree that he's usually the first in, last to leave, and quickest to prank. Tim's door is always open no matter the situation (customer needs, employees, good or bad... like even really bad... like dumpster fire bad). Always positive, of the highest integrity, always the calm, always supportive, not easily rattled, a finisher, a follow-through-er, quick witted; a weep-er for Prince, a lover of The CUBS and THE TAR HEELS. The man is obsessed with Pearl Jam, chocolate banana milkshakes and good bets, and seeks any opportunity to be selfless.

A truck and customer whisperer, he steps up to the challenge of difficulty and fully embraces all the qualities necessary to be an outstanding manager.

With a combined 15 years in the truck and customer service industry, Tim has excelled exponentially in both. They say you don't have to brag about putting in work because results speak for themselves, and Tim Fassett is an example of how true that statement is.

Fully backed by both the department he directly supervises, and the company he so passionately serves, Tim Fassett would make an extraordinary candidate for the National Used Truck Association's board of directors.
