

Ian Sifuentes – Board Nominee 2021

While I am currently serving as the Chief Financial Officer and Vice President of East Coast Operations of Mission Financial Services, my career with the company started back in 1997 during a high school internship. Over the next couple of years after my high school graduation, I attended school at Fullerton College and worked at Mission Financial on a part time basis. During this time, I learned the valuable functions of the company by seating in every department of Mission.

Between 2001 and 2003 I took a leave from Mission to continue my education at the University of California: Santa Barbara, earning a degree in Economics with an emphasis in accounting. At the end of 2003, I came back to Mission as a full-time employee after the completion of my schooling at UCSB as a financial analysis. My primary job functions for the company at this time for the analysis of outside companies that held portfolios of auto and truck contracts to be sold to outside companies to raise capital for the dealership as well as being involved in the accounting functions of the company from month-end reporting to working with state government, accounting firms and banking institutions.

As needs arose during my tenure at Mission Financial, I found that my duties for the company transformed to commercial underwriting and office management. At the beginning of 2006, I was promoted to the Southeastern Regional Vice President and moved to Atlanta, GA and later in 2016 I was once again promoted as the Chief Financial Officer.
